When hate abounds, promote empathy and love

The news of the tragic shootings that occurred this past weekend is deeply disturbing, painful and horrific. This heartbreaking news requires all of us to consider the impact of hate that leads to violence, and what we individually and collectively can do to create a better world by renouncing brutality. Read the full statement from Martell Teasley, Interim Senior Vice President of Academic Affairs, here.

Remembering UA

A new way to memorialize University of Utah students who have passed away.

A Call to Action

In recognition of the two-year anniversary of the murder of George Floyd, Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) encourages each of us to pause and consider how we as individuals, teams, academic units, or divisions can educate ourselves and become part of the solution to name and dismantle hate in all its forms.
