One of the best ways for students to become connected to the larger university is by finding their niche within a group of students who have similar academic pursuits or similar interests. Living Learning communities offer that opportunity for connection both inside and outside the classroom. Many academic departments and Student Affairs departments partner with Housing & Residential Education to offer students who live on campus the chance to experience the one of a kind living learning environment that combines special interests, living, and learning. These communities are specifically designed to deliver different types of educational, social, and developmental experiences to support students.
